Redirect Buddy Plugin

The Redirect Buddy Plugin for WordPress enables you to redirect visitors to your WordPress blog based on the number of days since their first visit.

It was designed to answer the needs of admins who want to send their first time visitors to an orientation page with videos explaining how the site works, or even to a special offer page.

You can set multiple pages to redirect your visitors on different days. This enables you to send them to special offers, or bonus pages for regular visitors, or whatever reward or other scheme you come up with.

The only limit is your imagination.

Usage

The first thing you should do is go to the "Redirect Buddy" page in your admin panel.

Adding URLs

The first thing you'll want to do is add your first URL that you want your new visitor to be redirected to.

Simply enter your redirect URL and the number of days since the visitor's initial visit to your website before it should trigger and redirect your visitor.

Add New

URL

Number of Days

Add your URL into this box, and set the number of days before it should redirect the visitor. Setting the days to zero will redirect the visitor on first visit.

When you've added one, click "Save" and then "Back To Lists".

- NOTE: The redirect for each entry is for ONE OCCURRENCE ONLY. When a visitor is finally redirected to your chosen URL, a cookie is placed in their browser cache for that site to indicate that the visitor has visited the site. No further redirects can occur for that site, unless the visitor's cookies (all cookies, or cookies only for that site) are cleared. So altering number of days for an existing URL will have no affect if the visitor has previously visited that site.

You can add several more redirects based on whatever schedule you think is appropriate for your site.
